

Directions

Whether you are staying in our B&B, village house or studio, please make your way to the B&B where we will meet you, hand over the keys and take you down to the other property and “show you the ropes”

Please follow these directions and DO NOT rely on your GPS system. We think the village has been wrongly plotted and you may get lost - they normally lead you into the wrong end of the village where the streets are particularly narrow.

El Gastor is just off the main Ronda/Algodonales/Seville road - the A374.

Keep an eye out for the km signs on the side of the road as the ONLY El Gastor turning you should take is between 6km and 7km - any other of the El Gastor turn offs will bring you into the wrong end of the village.

Follow the signs to El Gastor (4km up a good but winding road). After about 3 kms on this road you will see a metal crash barrier and a CA-049 km1 sign - after another 700 metres there is a small group of white houses on your left and an ornamental water trough called the Fuente de Gato on the right.

Just after the trough you will see a concrete road - turn right here, it is signposted to Algarrobales and there is a 70km speed sign just before it.

If you pass a petrol station on your left you have missed the turning and have gone too far and will need to turn around.

Take this road up into the pine trees, where it forks, bear left. This brings you down into a parking area. Our house is the 3rd on the left.

Hope the instructions are clear('ish) but if you need any further information just give us a call.
